

Glorietta Bay Inn Wins California Hotel & Lodging Association Award for Best Guest Relations

Coronado, California, February 6, 2007 – Glorietta Bay Inn announces its win for best guest relations program in a statewide competition. The award was presented by the California Hotel & Lodging Association in its annual “Stars of the Industry” awards.

The award was presented in Santa Barbara on February 1, 2007. General manager Holly Shumate and sales manager Claudia Ludlow-Gonzales were present to accept the award.

This is the sixth time Glorietta Bay Inn has won the award on either a statewide or national level.

“I was especially delighted when the award presenters noted that Glorietta Bay Inn should be in the ‘Hall of Fame’ for best guest service,” said Holly Shumate.

The Stars of the Industry awards were created more than 40 years ago by the American Hotel & Lodging Association. Glorietta Bay Inn will represent California in this year’s national competition for best guest relations.

Overlooking Coronado’s scenic Glorietta Bay, Glorietta Bay Inn, combines old-world charm with contemporary comfort. Built in 1908 as the home of "Sugar Baron" John D. Spreckels, the hotel's sun warmed lobby, sitting porches and music room, complete with a baby grand player piano, welcome guests to a bygone era of innkeeping.
